

commands such as modification or retrieve of the registered stock transaction reservation information or execution of stock transaction from the client terminal, receiving stock exchange information from the mainframe computer of stock market and then executing the client's commands and (b) transaction execution module which monitors present stock prices of items registered by the investment information register and management module as a stock transaction reservation information on and after a day when the stock transaction reservation information is registered, and makes and sends a transaction execution order to the mainframe computer of the stock market.